4. It was a fine day . . .

5. One sunny day, a fella' after-workthought he was Laving a finetime, when he got this gutfeeling.

So, he took a left instead of a right.

He come smackin into a pork, and rested awh@le in the pasteur.

Now get this : The guy was attacked byaguy hiding in a clump of bustes.

There were kidsploying in thi parks.

R . I . P. KILL DIE

HOLYCAWESOME !

Nothing worse than spying,

Is going right-up-behind theguy and severY e his head off ! with a thinnish-metalwire !

The poorcaretakers had a feast!
